

My husband, a young Canadian artist, too sick after the birth of our first daughter. He was diagnosed with bi-polar disorder shortly after. Becoming potentially dangerous to our 2 children and myself, he was forced to leave our family home. After numerous attempts, he took his own life. I feel this is not an act of selfishness as many view it. He was dead before he jumped.

I would welcome the opportunity to talk with you. I found out about your project from a friend who works in the field. I applaud you on taking steps in educating others on such a difficult subject. Good Luck!

Kellie Joyce
Georgetown, Ontario

(collateral damage)
IMAGES OF THOSE LEFT BEHIND BY SUICIDE